President of the Committee, in the chair, and A. T. Gallagher, Secretary. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Some members were in favor of permitting the presence of prominent friends of the organization and reporters. An animated conversation ensued. The Chair upheld the by-law which sanctions privacy whom indeed expedient by the President. Re thought the presence of strangers and reporters would not help the deliberations of the Committee. Some members expressed their desire that the decision of the Chair should be reversed by unanimous consent, but such consent was found to be wanting. The reporters therefore withdraw, and the meus consent, but such consent was found to be wanting. The reporters therefore withdraw, and the Committee proceeded to its deliberations with closed

Suicide of a Munderer in Preson.—We yester-day noticed the murder of Mrs. Nancy Abrams, whe of Charles Abrams, on Brook-av., a shore distance beyond Bacon's Quarter Branch, and now we are called upon to record the death of Abrams, who put an end to his own existence last night between the hours of 9 and 3 o'clock, ina cell in the juil at Heurico County. An inquest was held yesterlay over the body of Mrs. Abrams, when the jury returned as their verdict that the deceased came to her death by Charles Abrams. The accused was thereupon committed to the custody of the jailor of Henrico County, and ceptined in a cell in the prison. At 9 o clock last night he was suppleed to be reposing comfertably in his cell; but at 3 this morning, he was found suspended by the neck to the door of his cell by the jailor; and notwithstanding every effort was made to remacitate him, life was found to be extinct. When first discovered by the loilor, the unfortunate man was suspended by the neck, one end of a slik handkerchief having been the daround his neck, and the other fastened to the bar which secured the door of the cell. Upon cutting him down and removing the hunder-chief, it was discovered that he bad tied a hangman's knot in one end of the handkerchief, and it is supposed that after securing the other around the bar over the door, he three his whole weight upon the nease, and this produced strangulation. His knoss were within a few inches of the floor, whom his body was first discovered, and when standing erect, his tead was nearly on a level with the bar to which he faster ed the handkerchief. At nice o clock Mr. Justice Nettles held an inquisition over the body of the unfortunate man, when the jury found a verdict in accordance with the facts detailed above. As the snielde occurred, however, within the precinct of the city Coroner Wicker asserted his right to hold the inquest, and at 10 o'clock, the hour we visited the jail, Constable Lewellen was actively employed in summoning another jury of inquest. THE RIOT IN NEWARK, N. J.

VERDICT OF THE CORONER'S JURY.

The evidence before the Coroner's Jury in chlation o the death of Thomas McCarthy, was closed pesterday morning. On the investigation on Wednesday, testimeny in relation to the causes of the riot was only indirectly received, but yesterday witnesses were allowed to testify on this point.

The Newark Advertiser of yesterday says:

"The evidence confirms substantially our previous attemnts. The last two witnesses swern—one teacher at the Wesleyan Institute and the other teacher at the Wesleyan Institute and the other a young German—give explicit testimony that the riot was commenced by an assault on the procession, while it was moving along peacefully, by a stone thrown from the crowd in Shipman st, and an attack on the Henry Clay Benner. There is no evidence that stones or pistol shots came originally from the church. The testimony as to the death of McCarthy is exceedingly vague and unsatisfactory, and it still remains a proveking mystery both as to whence came the fatal shot, and who threw the first stone. After the adjectrement of the Jury an American young man, who had by some persons been asserted to be the one who threw the stone, was arrested and taken before a Justice. Nothing, appearing against him he was discharged. We append a portion of the evidence: John Pelverteff, a tin-smith, stated that he stood in William st., above the church, near the corner of

Charles Murray, a colored man, who works at the Wesleysn Institute, testified that he was standing at the corner of William and High-sts., when the disturbance commenced at the corner of William and Shipman-sts.; he went down and saw a man named Fiegeon in the midst of it: he could not mention the names of any that threw stones, but saw Halsey & Taylor is men throwing them from their yard; as we no stones fired from the church; the doors of the church were locked, and were backed open with stones; the stones were thrown at the procession before any disturbance occurred.

George B. Seers, a teacher of the Wesleyan Institute, testified that he was in that building, and he could see nearly the whole of the affair; the procession came up William-st, quietly till the last company mrived at the corner of Shipman, while the procession was marching saw a number of men coming through Shipman st, with aprone on; as the banner of the last receipt strived at the corner of Shipman-st, there was some disturbance among the crowd collected; the people appeared to be talking loudly and gestion. JUNEAU STREAM THY—GROSS CRUELTY.—We have just heard that a neighborhood in the southwestern part of the city has, within a day or two past, been kept in quite an excited estet on ac ount of the cruel treatment received by a little orphan boy, sged about ten years, at the hands of a man with whom he had been living. It appears that the little fellow, to escape from his tyrasmical guardian, made his sufferings known to a large number of his boy acquaintances, who agreed that, if he would only run off, they would find him places of concealment and plenty to eat. The little fellow, upon these inducements, oscaped, and for several days was faithfully supplied with head and cakes by his little Samaritan friends. Some of the more energetic of the young billanthropists we at about gathering up pieces of iron, cupper and all kinds of metal, also rags and other refuse articles from the rale of which they furnished the youthful fugitive with daily supplies of food. Finally though the vigilance of the guardian discovered the accuracy the little fellow, and forth with he was dragged to the house of his bondage, tied up and must crudily liagellated with the ends of a clothes line. This around the indignation of the whole neighborhood, and met with the loudest outery from every boy in that our of the city. At present the little sufferer is enduring his punishment, his literators boiling over for an opporturity of rescuing him, and taking some terrible hind of vergeance on the cruel guardian. This, we must say, is a phase of Young Americanism which is highly creditable to the youth of that part of the city.
